Anti Constitutional Traffic

Repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment does not make the liquor traffic constitutional. In 1933 we the people of the United States of America, yielding to the lying propaganda of the wets voted by an overwhelming majority to repeal the eighteenth amendment to our constitution. Finding our selves up a blind alley we are now compelled to retrace our steps. If there is any satisfaction in using the expression, "I told you so," the dries certainly have a right to it. The harvest of repeal is just about what they said it would be. Their warnings as to what would happen if prohibition were abandoned have been confirmed down to the last jot and tittle. The saloon was to go, but it is still here. The bootlegger was to disappear, but he still flourishes. Crime was to end, but it waxes ominously. Unemployment was to be reduced, but after three long years, 20,000,000 are on the relief rolls. Prosperity was to return, but it still lingers. Drinking was to diminish, but it is worse than ever. As for the expectations so confidently proclaimed for the liquor millennium.

It is my aim in this article to prove that the sale of intoxicating drinks, whether legal or illegal destroys every purpose of the constitution as set forth in the preamble. These purposes, six in number, are as follows: to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare and secure the blessing of liberty to ourselves and our posterity.

History tells us that the first rebellion against the "more perfect union" under the constitution was the Whiskey Rebellion in Western Pennsylvania in 1794.

The small distillers refused to pay the tax on whiskey. President Washington called out 13,000 soldiers who put down the rebellion. Had General Washington yielded to the demands of the liquor dealers as our government has done now the "more perfect union" of the constitution would have ended five years after it was organized.

If the government collects $1,000,000,000 a year in taxes from the sale of liquor, it means the consumers will have to pay $5,000,000,000 a year for liquors. Of this, $1,000,000,000 will go to the government and $4,000,000,000 will go to the liquor barons all from the pockets of the people. The principal consumers of liquor are the working masses of the nation. It is a drain on the earnings and savings of labor. It falls with crushing effect on the mother, the wife, the child. Does that act establish justice as the preamble provides? Is an entirely safe in saying that the common people pay more to the dealers in liquor every year besides the taxes than the government pays out in relief? If the common people stand for this situation it means that they are incapable of ruling themselves, and that democratic government is a failure.

The two principal reasons that they gave for the repeal of the law prohibiting the sale of intoxicants are that they cannot be enforced, and that the government needs the money to be derived from taxing the traffic. Why not go a step further and repeal the eighth amendment, and all the laws against stealing? In spite of these laws $13,000,000,000 a year go to burglars, highwaymen and bank robbers. Since the laws against stealing cannot be enforced and the government is badly in need of money, why not repeal them, and permit the burglars, highwaymen and bank robbers to ply their trade, provided they pay 20 percent of their loot to the government?

That sounds ridiculous, doesn't it? But is it any more ridiculous than the proposition of the wets? As between the highwayman and the liquor dealer, the former is the more humane of the two. The highwayman throws a gun in your face and demands your money or your life. If you deliver your money to him he spares your life. The financial success of the liquor dealer demands not only the surrender of your money but the sacrifice of your health, your life and your immortal soul.

Experience teaches us that there can be no tranquility in the homes where fathers, husbands, and sons are drunkards or in the community where liquor flows freely. It requires no argument to prove that the liquor traffic defeats the third purpose of the constitution as set forth in the preamble. The fourth purpose of the constitution is to provide for the common defense. History and experience show clearly that the road of intemperance is strewn with wrecked lives, wrecked nations and empires. No nation that permits its citizens and its soldiers to become drunkards can defend itself against a foreign foe if that foe is sober. The fifth chapter of Daniel shows us how the drunken orgy of Belshazzar and his lords enabled Darius the Mede to end the days of the king and his great Babylonian empire. Later the decayed state of the Persian Empire brought on by intemperance made possible the march of the famous Ten Thousand Greeks who defeated an army of 800,000 Persians. Myer's the historian tells us that extravagant and self indulgent living so weakened the vitality of the citizens of the great Roman Empire that it was easily overcome by the barbarians from the north, thus ushering in the thousand year period known as the Dark Ages. In 1918 more than a year before the eighteenth amendment was adopted our government found it necessary in providing for the common defense to prohibit the sale of liquor. During the World War the Allied Governments found that their national existence required the adoption of war time prohibition.

It should be plain to the warring man, the fool, that national intelligence in alcoholic drinks will destroy the general welfare which is the fifth purpose of the constitution to promote. Had alcohol never been discovered and were it then in my power to portray the evil effects of such a discovery, all men without exception, would unite in saying that it would be impossible for the very fiends of hell to conceive of any more diabolical plan for the degradation and destruction of the human race.

National intelligence in alcoholic drinks will take away the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity. Liberty does not mean license. It does not mean the privilege to do as you please. It means the freedom to develop all the gifts of your body, mind and soul. The liquor habit will cloud your mind, paralyze your muscles and shatter your nerves, thus destroying the liberty which is the birthright of every American. It fastens on you a habit which is worse slavery than that of any political tyrant or task master who holds you in involuntary servitude. Physiologists tell us that alcohol creates in the user a thirst or craving that is handed down to his descendants, thus making them slaves to an inherited appetite. Alcohol visits the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation. The blessing of liberty is not secure to the posterity of the drunkard.

I believe that if the arguments of those who would legalize the sale of intoxicants were carried to their logical conclusion, the purposes of the constitution as set forth in the preamble would be defeated, all laws for the protection of society would be repealed, democratic government would be a failure and the chaos for which the Anarchists, Czologs and Zangaras gave their lives would be a reality.

Voters of Morgan county, you will have the opportunity to banish the legalized sale of liquor from your community on Tuesday, September 29, 1936.

THE CONSUMER PAYS

The consumer pays for the cost of government. You are the consumer whether you work for wages or strive to meet a payroll. You pay the taxes that run the government. If the cost of government is high, taxes are high. Taxes which rile you the most are direct. You get the bill separately for such taxes. But most of the taxes you pay are hidden in the cost of commodities you buy.

For instance, you pay a real estate tax whether you own property or not. It is included in your rent.

A $5 pair of shoes has 35 different kinds of taxes included in the price. In a 10 cent package of cigarettes, 9 cents is for taxes and a cent for tobacco.

Forty cents of every $1 you pay for gasoline is for taxes. If you ride a bus or a street car, your dues include taxes paid by the utilities operating those vehicles.

A substantial part of your railroad ticket goes to pay the $4,500,000 annual tax bill paid by the railroads in Kentucky.

Even the income tax is passed along to the consumer. Social security benefits constitute a direct levy upon payrolls.

First Pension Check

The first Old Age Pension checks for Kentucky were delivered direct to the persons concerned at a public meeting at the State Capitol, August 24, when those old people had been taken to take a part in the inauguration of the new program in Kentucky. The highest amount of the allotment to any person is $15.00 a month.

Frances M. Pruett, an old lady who had been staying in and around West Liberty for a quarter of a century and who has no known relatives here was taken to Frankfort by M. H. Whitl and received her check and an allotment of $9.00 per month for life.

In presenting the checks the Governor told the recipients: "This money is given you by your fellow citizens who are more fortunately situated than you are. They have what you do not have in sufficient amount for your worldly needs, and a generous government wants to provide you with the bare necessities of life. The people who enjoy what you do not enjoy are willing to help you. They want you to have that which you have been denied many times thru no fault of your own. It is your task to use it to good advantage."

Commissioner of Welfare, Frederick A. Wallis, in direct charge of the pension fund and that about 30,000 applications were on file in his office and that neither race, color nor politics would be considered in the final disposition of the applications, but he warned his audience that the money allotments represented work and self denial by fellow Americans and that if any part of it were put to improper use the allowances would be promptly discontinued.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN CLINIC

A free diagnostic and follow-up clinic will be held in the First Christian church, Mt. Sterling on Wednesday, September 9, by the Kentucky Crippled Children Commission according to announcement made by Miss Marian Williamson, director.

The Commission administers a state appropriation for this work, supplemented by funds raised thru public contribution by the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children.

During the past twelve years since its creation the Commission has provided hospital care for more than 5,000 crippled boys and girls throughout the state. The clinic in Mt. Sterling on September 9, will be for the benefit of crippled children in the following counties: Bull, Marlette, Montgomery, Morgan, Powell, Rowan, and Wolfe.

Mrs. Antoinette K. Dowling, the Commission's field nurse, is now in this section conferring with health and welfare authorities in regard to the clinic. Local committees in each county are being formed to sponsor the clinic. Chairman of Morgan county is Mrs. G. K. Stacy, West Liberty. Any person who knows of a crippled boy or girl who is in need of examination and treatment is asked to send the name and address to the chairman of his local committee and arrangements will be made to have the child attend the clinic on September 9.

SERVICE TO OTHERS

There is selfishness in sorrow as well as joy, and the best comfort in affliction comes from rendering service to others. In endeavoring to comfort the sorrowing and afflicted, we forget ourselves and gain strength by giving strength to others. When we suffer most and need sympathy ourselves, our hearts are tender toward those in trouble, and we are then best able to extend help and sympathy.—Massie Home Journal.

President Denounces War in Chautauqua Speech

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT was at Chautauqua, N. Y., on Friday, Sept. 10, when he addressed the summer camp.

He expressed his deep concern about the situation in Europe and the world and the danger of international agreements which would regard the simple principles of honor.

"Our closest neighbors are now at war," the President said. "If there are remoter nations that wish us not good but ill, they know that we are strong; they know that we can and will defend ourselves and defend our neighborhood."

Mr. Roosevelt said he had seen war on land and sea. "I have seen blood running from the wounded," he said. "I have seen men coughing out their gassed lungs. I have seen the dead in the mud. I have seen cities destroyed. I have seen 200,000, exhausted men come out of lines—the survivors of a regiment of 1,000 men—after forty-eight hours before. I have seen children starving. I have seen the agonies of mothers and wives. I have war."

Germany felt that Mr. Roosevelt's speech was aimed at them and refused to be enticed into a discussion of the situation in Europe. The German government was to be expected to refuse to be enticed. The price of German wheat was expected to be high. The price of German wheat was expected to be high. The price of German wheat was expected to be high.

Wheat Supply Adequate, Says Federal Report

THERE is enough wheat in the United States for the usual domestic requirements of the season of 1935-36, according to the midsummer report of the bureau of agricultural economics, but the supply of red spring wheat and durum wheat and consequently importation of these varieties will be continued. The amount, however, will not be large, Secretary Wallace stated.

"It is probable the spring wheat supply in the 1935-36 season will be a large percentage of hard red winter and Pacific northwest wheat than last year," said the report. "A larger than usual quantity of soft red winter wheat is also likely to be used in bread flour. As a result, imports of spring wheat may be less than in 1935."

Wheat prices in the United States may be expected to average about as high relative to world prices as in the 1935-36 season, when the price of No. 2 hard winter at Kansas City was 15 cents over Liverpool, the bureau said. During the last three years soft crops together with other influences resulted in wheat prices in the United States being maintained unusually high relative to the world market price.

Farm prices probably have been 20 cents to 30 cents higher than might have been expected with more nearly normal yields in the United States," the report continued. "A return of average or greater than average yields in the United States would result in an export surplus and prices would adjust to clear an export market."

The price paid for the 1936 crop, 1,000,000 bushels, was the second highest in history, and seedlings for the 1937 crop would produce a surplus, wheat for food and domestic consumption even if the harvest fell out to be one-third below average.

United States Will Not Interfere in Spain

EFFORTS of European nations, notably France, to persuade the United States to join in a neutrality pact concerning the civil war in Spain are not likely to succeed, however, it is the intention of our government not to interfere in the situation in any way whatsoever.

Instructions to this effect were sent to all American representatives in Spain by William Phillips, acting secretary of state, when he arrived in Madrid last week. Phillips said that the United States intended to continue with its "well established policy of noninterference with internal affairs in other countries, including the state of peace or civil strife."

Most of the nations invited to participate in the non-intervention agreement were willing, but Germany temporarily blocked the plan by announcing that its answer would be delayed until Madrid gave a satisfactory reply to German protests regarding the execution of four German nationals in Barcelona.

American Ambassador Bowers abandoned his "floating embassy" aboard the coast guard cutter Cayuga and went ashore at St. Jean de Luz, France, by advice of the Department of State in Washington. According to the Army and Navy Journal, Mr. Bowers had tried to assume the role of commander of the American fleet in Spanish waters, and when the officers politely told him they took orders only from the Navy and Treasury departments, he protested to Washington, with the result recorded above.

Father Coughlin's Group Indorses Lemke

FOLLOWING the recommendation of Father Charles E. Coughlin, the National Union for Social Justice, in convention in Cleveland, indorses the candidacy of Representative Lemke and O'Brien, heads of the Union party ticket. But, also on the advice of the priest, the Lemke platform was not indorsed. The 25,000 members of the N. U. S. J. present enthusiastically and unanimously elected Father Coughlin president of the organization. Lemke and O'Brien both appeared before the convention, delivered speeches and were given a rousing reception.

The final episode of the meeting of the Coughlinites was sensational. The military priest was delivering a dramatic address before a vast audience in the Cleveland municipal stadium when suddenly he faltered, begged pardon and announced weakly that he could not preach because of illness. He was half carried to a car that hurried him to his hotel. There it was said he had an epileptic seizure and fell into the arms of his followers in Detroit.

No New Taxes Promise for Coming Year

FOLLOWING a conference of President Roosevelt, Chairman Harrison of the senate finance committee, Chairman Doughton of the house ways and means committee, and Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, the administration's fiscal program for the coming year was thus outlined:

1. Assurance that no request will be made to the next congress for the levying of additional taxes or increase of present tax rates.

2. Launching of an immediate study by treasury and congressional committees of present revenue laws as a basis for recommendations to the next congress for elimination of inequitable taxes, especially those unfair to consumers or to trade.

3. Treasury assurance that "with continued recovery" the revenue yield is approaching the point where it will cover government costs and provide a surplus for reduction of the public debt.

What S. Cobb Thinks about

Woes of French Hotelkeepers.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—It is a long way from a boulevard full of ransacking Reds and Nazis to the quiet bedrooms of a Paris hotel. Cobb, who wouldn't trade a French room of assorted French tourists, including all the standardized styles, such as the contemporary, the chic type, the partly modernized hybrid and the custom-made variety, for any one of the old-fashioned easy-going American visitors—the kind that was too careless to check up the weekly bill.

But when, in dispatches from Berlin, a fellow reads of disputed decisions, questioned reversals, alleged discriminations against some winning contestants on account of color, and the unnecessarily brutal publicity or so it appeared at long distance, that was given to the disciplining of an indiscreet woman athlete, and then the threatened withdrawals of aggrieved teams from certain Latin countries, he gets to thinking, the reader does, that maybe it would be better if each national group held its own little private Olympic show on the home grounds and barred out the riffraff, meaning by that, all foreigners.

Private Olympic Games. ORIGINALLY these Olympic games were based upon the ideal of strengthening inter-racial friendships through competitive sport.

But when, in dispatches from Berlin, a fellow reads of disputed decisions, questioned reversals, alleged discriminations against some winning contestants on account of color, and the unnecessarily brutal publicity or so it appeared at long distance, that was given to the disciplining of an indiscreet woman athlete, and then the threatened withdrawals of aggrieved teams from certain Latin countries, he gets to thinking, the reader does, that maybe it would be better if each national group held its own little private Olympic show on the home grounds and barred out the riffraff, meaning by that, all foreigners.

Uncle Sam's Alien Burdens

NO matter which party controls congress, watch at the next term for this: A campaign for legislation opening the doors to millions of aliens now barred out under the quota laws, which also would legalize the presence here of a great mass of the foreign-born, some of them criminals, some misfits and malecontents, some avowed enemies of our government, some purporting on Federal relief who already are doing a good deal of rough while safe smuggling in, through fraudulent immigration papers, through carelessness to use a gentle term—on the part of public servants charged with the duty of guarding at the gate.

In the years before us, it will be a sufficiently heavy burden to care for such of our own worthy home-folks, whether native or naturalized, as otherwise would go destitute.

Cleverness of the Chinese. ONCE, long ago, I, being a reporter, was detailed to accompany to police headquarters in New York a Chinese prince who'd come over to study our police methods. We were in the Bertillon bureau, presided over by the famous inspector Faurot.

"Ah, yes," said the courtly visitor in faultless English, "this same system has been in vogue in my land since time immemorial, except that we use fingerprinting in addition to legal signatures and official seals, and their 'validating important documents.'"

"Don't you also use it for recording habitual criminals?" "I do not think so."

"Well, then," asked Faurot, "how do you identify them?" "Very simple," said the prince and smiled a gentle smile. "When we catch a chronic offender we immediately cut off his head, and then anyone may recognize him at a glance."

The Spanish Extravaganza

A FELLOW picks up the paper and reads in the news dispatches from Spain that the Loyalists licked the Royalists, or vice versa, and the Leftists tied into the Nationalists again—or maybe they're both the same.

Whereas the insurgents wallowed the radicals, but elsewhere the government forces drove back the rebels and meanwhile the Reds or the Centrals or somebody did something important to the Republican cause, as opposed to the monarchist group; and at all points south and west the anti-clerical and the church and the Agrarian party, the Fascists and the Communists, the bourgeois and the townpeople, the laboring classes and the aristocrats, the landowners and the tenants, etc., etc., were snarled into various hard knots. So what?

If, after all, there are but two main sides engaged—only I wouldn't know about that—the correspondents could confer a great deal of just naming one as the Loyalists and the other as the McCoyes. Or would you prefer calling them the Callahans and the Murphyys?

Sittie and Buzzie at Dallas Fair

Sittie and Buzzie Doll, grandchildren of President Roosevelt, visited the Texas Centennial exposition at Dallas in the company of their father, Curtis Doll. They mingled with the thousands of other children along the exposition's long midway, munching popcorn and ice cream. They are pictured above, riding on the merry-go-round, while their father, on the left, seems to enjoy the ride himself. In the meantime the children's famous grandfather is busy preparing for a trip through the drought area, and for the fall campaign.

JERRY MUSKRAT NURSES A SORE TAIL

JERRY MUSKRAT was caught in a cruel steel trap. He was caught by his tail. It was a fortunate thing for him that it was by his tail and not by a leg. But right at this time Jerry couldn't see anything fortunate in it. In fact, to Jerry's way of thinking it was unfortunate.

Now Jerry Muskrat is much more at home in the water than on land, and his first impulse in time of danger is to get into the water at once if he is not already there. So when that cruel steel trap caught him by the tail in its wicked jaws Jerry plunged back off the end of the trap into the water and tried to swim away.

So He Pulled and Pulled and Pulled

If he had only known it, this was just what the trapper had expected him to do and hoped he would do. That trap had been fastened with a chain in such a way that Jerry could get into deep water. You see, the trapper hoped that Jerry would drown himself, and Jerry did come pretty near doing just that thing. He swam with all his might, but the trap held him, and as he struggled he lost his breath and water got up his nose in such a way that he choked.

It didn't take him very long to realize that he couldn't pull himself free in the water. At first he was in such a panic of fright that he didn't use his wits at all. But after he began to realize that by struggling in the water he would simply drown himself, Jerry's wits began to work. He turned about and swam back to that old log and climbed out on it. There he squatted down and rested to regain his strength and get his breath.

"It's of no use for me to try to pull myself free by swimming," thought Jerry. "I'm a pretty strong swimmer but not strong enough to do that. Perhaps I can pull myself free up here."

So when he had rested, Jerry dug his claws into the old log and pulled and pulled. It seemed to him that he certainly was pulling his tail out by the roots. But it would be better to do that and have no tail at all than to lose his life. So he pulled and pulled and pulled. By and by it seemed to him that he felt his tail slip a little. That gave him courage and he pulled harder than ever.

Suddenly he glided right over on his head, and at the same time there was a little snap behind him. He had pulled his tail free and the jaws of the trap had come together. You see, Jerry's tail tapered, and he had been caught not very far from the end of it. It was this which had saved him.

As soon as he felt himself free

Jerry plunged into the water and swam over to his house. Not until he was safely inside his bedroom did he look at his tail. The skin had been torn by the jaws of that trap, and the end of his tail was raw and bleeding. It was dreadfully sore and ached. Jerry began to lick it very gently. For the rest of that day and the following night Jerry stayed right in his house and nursed that sore tail. But he had saved his life, so a sore tail didn't matter much.

MOTHER'S COOK BOOK

HINTS FOR HOUSEWIVES

IT IS generally conceded an efficient housekeeper is one who cannot be moved from her serenity by an onslaught of unexpected company.

The housewife who tries to be cordial and hospitable while her mind is traveling in circles as to what she is going to feed them, should after one experience learn to provide for the unexpected.

With a well-stocked emergency shelf (if she hasn't a corner grocery at her finger's end), she may be serene and amply with no strain on her hospitality.

The list of staples to be kept for such occasions will vary with the taste of the housewife. However, there are some things which are always in order, such as cheese, crackers, cookies, pickles, olives, as well as the good things from the fruit shelf. Desserts and salads may be quickly prepared from a can of peaches or pears.

Did you ever add coconut (washing off the sugar if it is the dried kind), with a few dropped pickles, and pour ones, to a salmon salad, in a nest of shredded cabbage or lettuce. It is good and not common.

A farmer's wife, though she is far from the corner grocery, has much the advantage of a city dweller. She will have chicken, fatted, fried and stewed; hams from her own smoke house; and such foods, though common enough to her will be most appreciated by her city guest. From her fruit closet she will bring canned corn and other vegetables that are so much like the fresh ones that they are most welcome. Fruits and berries, jams and jellies, are always provided in the farmhouse. With the fresh thick cream, an omelet or scrambled eggs, a slice of nicely cooked home-smoked ham, hot biscuits, berries, either fresh or canned—could anyone ask for a dancier or more appetizing meal? If the farm wife would just remember what is common to her is a treat to her city friend, her meals would lack that "trying to do something and can't" effect so often given.

ONLY ALONE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

ONLY alone man ever knows the truth. Too many friends to flatter us in youth. Too many foes to criticize in age. For us to really read life's open page.

Only alone a man admits his sin. And ever dares condemn the man within. At other times he listens to his friends. Among his foes too much himself defends.

Only alone a man is ever fair. Fair to his foes, whatever faults they wear. Fair to himself, his virtue may admit.

The greatness or the littleness of it. Only alone a man can weigh the sweets. Of flattery, if flattery he meets. Knows which was admiration, which was guile.

What flowers will wither, which will last awhile. Only alone a man is ever true. True to himself, and all the whole world through.

There he will know the rightness of his cause.

Unwaged by criticism, or applause. Only alone, and thus the reason is: Because a time alone is never his. Apart from men, he kneels upon the sod.

Only alone in company with God.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for August 30

BEGINNING OF WORLD MISSIONS

LESSON TEXT: MATTHEW 23:1-12; ROMANS 1:1-17. GOLDEN TEXT: "And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature."—MATTHEW 28:19. PRIMARY: "Preach the Gospel to Every Creature."—MATTHEW 28:19. JUNIOR: "Preach the Gospel to Every Creature."—MATTHEW 28:19. ADVANCED: "Preach the Gospel to Every Creature."—MATTHEW 28:19. YOUNG PEOPLE: "Preach the Gospel to Every Creature."—MATTHEW 28:19. ADULT: "Preach the Gospel to Every Creature."—MATTHEW 28:19.

The annual expression of salvation in the Word of God is a possession for the conversion of others. The early church was born to fulfill the great commission of its Lord and Master. Its first missionary enterprise was in the great and wicked city of Antioch, only 150 miles from Jerusalem, but far from God. In this unpromising soil we find growing:

1. A Model Mission Church (vv. 1-12).

Its establishment was in accord with the plan of God, for it was:

1. The result of a faithful testimony (vv. 18-20).

Those who were scattered abroad by persecution had but one crowning purpose—"preaching the Lord Jesus."

2. A gathering place for all God's people (vv. 18, 20). The truth was preached to both Jews and Gentiles.

3. A living witness in a wicked city (v. 21).

The hand of the Lord was with them. Little wonder then that a great number believed and turned unto the Lord. Note in verse 23 that it was in Antioch that the followers of Christ were first called by the beautiful name "Christians." In the midst of the most evil and degraded surroundings the sweet flower of Christian faith may grow.

4. The Model Mission Church becomes a Model Missionary Church (12:1-12).

We have here the first step in the world-wide missionary movement which continues to our day and which has influenced the destinies of man and shaped the course of world history.

This first missionary enterprise presents the essential principles and methods which are vital to true missionary work, even in our day. To begin with, there must be a proper base of operation, namely:

The home church (vv. 1-12).

God calls his messengers, sends them out of the church membership. On the Sunday that this lesson is taught missionary leaders of the next generation will be in the classes of some crossroads Sunday school. How important it will be that the teachers present the truth of God's Word plainly and faithfully.

Notice that this church was spiritually alive. It was a church that prayed, fasted, and ministered the Word of God. It was responsive to the guidance of the Holy Spirit.

Next we have indicated the type of men called to be:

2. The missionaries (vv. 2-4).

a. The strongest men in the church (v. 2).

When you want something done, ask a busy man to do it. God's missionary program calls for the best the church can give, not misfits or failures.

b. Spirit-led men (vv. 3, 4).

God chooses and sends men into service. He separates and places them.

3. Missionary experiences (vv. 5-12).

a. Minister to all people (vv. 5-7). Paulus was a Greek city of high culture and few morals. It was ruled by Sergius Paulus, a Roman officer of noble character. With him was Barnabas also called Elymas, a wicked Jew. The missionary messenger rejects in the opportunity to preach to Greek, Roman, and Jew.

b. Meet Satan's opposition (vv. 8-10).

The devil has his servants who live only to oppose the gospel. Notice that even as God has children so also there are children "of the devil" (v. 10). We choose our spiritual family connections.

c. Pronounce judgment on sin (v. 11).

This is not an easy thing to do but is required of one who is "filled with the Holy Spirit."

d. Lead men to Christ (v. 12).

In this case it was the result of fear, which is a powerful factor in the conversion of some men.

The Master's commission, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel," has never been altered, modified, or abrogated. It is still the great "unfinished business" of the church.

Riding With Their Backs to the Horses

Some people are always looking into the back. All the worth of things is there. They are always talking about the good times that once happened.

There is no romance in the world now, no heroism. The writers and artists are not as they used to be. Life is a struggle on a small, commonplace scale. Now that is a miserable sort of thing. It brings a kind of paralysis and over the life, and perishes the natural spring of joy that should be ever leaping up to meet the fresh new merces that the days keep bringing. The fault is not in the times, but in the people.

STUDIES IN EYE MOVEMENT IN READING

In the article last week some objectives of reading and causes of poor readers were discussed. One of these causes is poor eye-movement.

In reading the eye makes a series of quick movements with intervening pauses. The number of pauses per line varies. In a good upper grade reader there will be about four pauses per line. A poor reader may make as many as fifteen pauses per line. Therefore the proper development of eye movement is one of the most important things in reading. The eye movement of a good reader is smooth, rhythmic and rapid. The eye movement of a poor reader is slow, uncertain and irregular. A poor reader makes regressive movements and becomes confused. In other words the eye moves forward and then backward over the printed line. The problem of the teacher is how to prevent and overcome habits of slow, laborious reading of this kind. The remedy is to make fewer eye-pauses per line. This can be done by using phrase-flashing of short sentences. The teacher should have several sets of flash cards about two and half inches by three and a half inches containing typewritten or printed phrases.

In the upper grades a specified time should be allowed say 5 minutes for silent reading. All the class read the same thing beginning at the same place. The teacher should state that the purpose is to see how much each can read and reproduce in five minutes. Have each pupil to write their name and number of pages read on a slip of paper.

Another method is to assign the pupil a long unit of easy material to be read at home or at study period and report what they read in writing. Also it has been found that re-reading a story aids in forming better eye-movement.

REPORT OF ZONE CONFERENCE

Stacy Fork, Aug. 21, 1936. The devotional was conducted by Norine Dunn. Miss Nell Burton presided and introduced Prof. Clarence Nickell, Dean of Men, Morehead State Teachers College. Prof. Nickell spoke on values higher than money. He said that he felt a teacher who helped children live a life worth while received a greater reward than money. That the cycle whether good or vicious of life begins at the home and goes the rounds of the school and the other social organizations and back to the home.

Mr. Coebel Ratliff, member of the board spoke on the contributions that the people of Stacy Fork have made to the better life of its citizens. Mr. Ratliff told of his experience as a teacher.

Mr. J. P. Berton, chairman of the board spoke on material and equipment needed in primary grades and exhibited some equipment he had used. One most interesting exhibit was an abacus for teaching beginning to count, which he had used for more than 20 years.

Mrs. Opal Elam taught a class in primary reading. Mrs. Zola Haney taught a demonstration class in 4th grade arithmetic, and Bernard E. Whitt taught a class in 5th grade history.

After the conference, the following teachers were present: Norine Dunn, Beelo Patrick, Beta Elam, Wardie Craft, Arthur Watson, Vera Elmer, Maxine Lucy, Harrison, Holliday, Bernard Haney, Marie Haney, Gave Adams, Opa McKenize, Duward Denison, Buford Howard, Ova Ratliff, Anna Steel, Lilla May, Arnold Brown, Hazel Hamilton, George Lacy, Olla Moore, Lena McClure, Katherine Byrd, Edith Ward and Nell Burton.

The teachers at Stacy Fork served drinks and cake at the close of the conference which was greatly enjoyed.

In introducing Mr. Nickell, Miss Burton said that in the many past years he had filled his work area faithfully done and was an example of success achieved by a Morgan county product.

BLAIRS MILLS SCHOOL NEWS

Our school began July 13 with the attendance of thirty-two. Leslie and Estill Kidd from Hollow Poplar were temporarily enrolled in our school for the three last weeks of the first month's school while they were visiting their grandfather, Mr. Sol Kidd. They have returned to Hollow Poplar.

We have a fair supply of text-books for our students and a good amount of supplementary material. We express our sincere thanks to the Cane Creek Community Center for the donation of about twenty-five books of various grades for our library. We have no library case but are planning the building of one in the near future.

Miss Ward, our helping teacher visited us last month. We are looking forward to her next visit. We hope that our supervisor, Mr. Whitt, and superintendent Haney will visit us this year.

During the first month of our school, twenty-five of our enrollment had a perfect attendance record. Those absent were due to sickness. We had our monthly examination last week and the pupils who ranked highest for the first month are: primer, Ray Gibbs; first, Lodna Canasty; second, Emerson Easterling; third, Mattie Jewell Elam; fourth, Reginald Easterling; fifth, Kathleen Sergeant; seventh, Vergie Kidd. We are having real competition for the best grades.

We have been working on our campus and have it in fair condition. We have sent a sample of our drinking water to be tested but have not heard the results.

BEULAH BERNICE and VIRGIE

PERIN SCHOOL NEWS

A program committee was appointed, as we are planning a short program for the next meeting. I am quite sure this program will be very interesting and worth while.

We are very much pleased with the attendance, and hope you will come and bring someone with you to our next meeting Friday afternoon, September 4 at 2:30 o'clock.

STACY FORK SCHOOL NEWS

We are still making improvements in our work. We are able to do so by the help of our pie supper money and the splendid effort put forth by all the pupils. We have already purchased tables with our pie supper money and the children are very much pleased with their new books and take much pride in reading them.

We were very proud of the opportunity of having the zone conference at our school last Friday. The children liked their teachers for that day and wish to invite them back.

We are having our second P. T. A. meeting this Friday, August 28. We hope that all the parents of this community will be here for this community meeting is necessary.

Students Offered Course in Art of Whistling

In the old horse-and-buggy days whistling was a natural art acquired without effort. You either whistled or didn't and it was much better ordinarily if you did not, at least for your friends.

But things change and now we learn that the high school in Bangs, Texas, has made whistling a regular course in its curriculum. There is nothing like this in the United States before.

Graduation, says the Bangs professor, may be just as badly needed after graduation, too. The whistling is supposed to keep up the courage in the dark, and there is so much darkness, perhaps that is why whistling is so popular. It may be taught in high school. It is very essential.

We are a bit puzzled as to what credit the school will allow for those who pass, whether the examination will be confined to those who cannot whistle whether any homework is involved, and if there are to be examinations on the subject.

That ancient belief about whistling goes coming to a bad end may have been repeated in Texas, but our advice to the graduates is not to carry their knowledge into offices and factories. When seeking and after getting a job, this ability will not help them. It is even apt to land them on their ears in the alley. Silence, please!

The Average Vocabulary

Average vocabulary depends chiefly on education and reading habit, says the Detroit News. One authority states that an average individual who does not do much thinking or reading uses only about 1,000 words, while one who is educated, talks well and does a moderate amount of reading and writing should have a vocabulary of 5,000 to 6,000 words. This is the working vocabulary. The recognition vocabulary is given as about three times these figures. A grade school graduate, on the average, can use 1,200 to 2,000 words; a high school graduate 3,000 to 4,000; a college graduate, 5,000 to 12,000.

MOUNTAIN BOY

Hints for Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

If you are building a bookcase or a kitchen cabinet, or want more shelves in an old one, an adjustable shelf arrangement can be made by nailing a piece of corrugated tin roofing on each side of the bookcase or cabinet, with the corrugations running horizontally. If the span of the shelves is not more than 18 to 24 inches, shelves of heavy tempered pressed wood can be cut to size and placed at any desired level.

The fruit sugar contained in natural fruit juices provides a quick source of new energy. Try a glass of canned, unsweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice as a quick "pick-me-up" from that dragged-out and tedious feeling that frequently overcomes us in the middle of the afternoon.

Know Your Language

By C. L. Bushnell

School of English, International Correspondence Schools

EVEN lexicographers—the people who prepare our dictionaries—are sometimes guilty of mistakes. Dr. Samuel Johnson, probably the most famous of them all, defined "pastern," meaning a talon, as "the knee of a horse." When asked by a lady how he happened to make such an error, he replied, "Ignorance, Madam, pure ignorance."
